HOUSE WRATH DESCENDS ON BBC WIRELESS

Commons Heated Over Edwards' Censure by Archbishop of Canterbury

LONDON, Dec. 17.—Members of the House of Commons descended in wrath today on the British Broadcasting Corporation for the Archbishop of Canterbury's recent radio denunciation of former King Edward VIII and his friends.

Members who disapproved the censure by the head of the Church of England prepared to expunge the detail of arrangements by the B.B.C. a government monopoly, for broadcasts concerning Edward's abdication.

The archbishop provoked a wide controversy by his rebuke of the former ruler for deserting to the United States in "violation of the Christian principles of marriage," and of his friends as a "circle whose standards and ways of life are alien to all the best instincts and traditions of his people."

UP IN ARMS
M.P.'s incensed by the archbishop's attack declared they were determined to uncover the secret details surrounding the former King's farewell broadcast.

They said they wanted to know: "Did the B.B.C. demand—as is customary for all radio programs—a preview of their messages?"

Why did the B.B.C. network shut down immediately after the archbishop's speech had ended after consultation with government officials?

Other members declared all programs during the empire's constitutional crisis were "too mournful

Said to be heir to an English estate valued at $150,000, Mrs. Cecil H. Forrester, wife of C. H. Forrester, a painter and decorator of 8223 90th street, is a patient in an Edmonton hospital. Search for Mrs. Forrester has been going on for some time since word of her inheritance was received by Mrs. C. G. Carlson, of Didsbury, a sister-in-law who had not seen her for 20 years, at which time she left Didsbury to be married.

The delay in finding Mrs. Forrester arose from the fact that Mrs. Carlson and authorities she had enlisted in her search were looking for a Mrs. Cecil Foster, the Carlsons being looking for Foster to be the name of the man she married.

By the irony of fate the estate would have gone to the Crown in March next if Mrs. Forrester had not been located, and during all the years she had been searched for the family could have done with their good fortune as Forrester has been working for a considerable time.

"We might never have known of this if we hadn't read the story in 'The Bulletin,' said Forrester today. "The story read that a Mrs. Foster was looking for, but it also stated that the estate was that of an uncle, Adam Nixon, and that was my wife's maiden name. She had an uncle Adam and a Mrs. Carlson was a sister-in-law. She had formerly been a Mrs. Nixon, so we thought we had better come to 'The Bulletin' to investigate."

Wires between Edmonton and Calgary confirmed the Forrester's idea that they were the parties being sought and they will be put in touch with the London firm of solicitors in charge of the estate.

"I'm thankful to 'The Bulletin,' said Forrester, who added that she was not sure of the exact time and that the family had not had an easy time.

"My wife is in the hospital now and I've got to go and tell her," he added. "This will make her feel a lot better."

MRS. POGMORE TESTIFIES SHE BALKED AT END

Countermanded Her Counsel to Ernest to Kill Her Husband

By "SPUD" MURPHY
Boston suit was won.

RED DEER, Alta., Dec. 17.—Admitting she had counseled Emmanuel "Happy" Ernst, her confessed lover, to kill her husband, George Pogmore, Pyramus farmer, but that she had countermanded this counselling on the Friday, October 16, previous to the killing, was the statement of Christine Maud Pogmore in supreme court here before Mr. Justice Irvine and a jury. She swore that on the Friday night when Ernst had passed her a bottle of strychnine to administer to her husband, "that she balked against the act and refused to do it."

She gave this evidence in a steady voice, her eyes fastened on the jury, but she broke down at a point at the base of the jury box. A special rearrangement of the court seating was made when she came to the witness box to enable the witness to be seated. She gave a chair on the raised stand immediately below the bench and facing directly towards the jury.

GOOD PHASE
She testified that when she received the pill of poison from her lover "she chafed against it, and made an excuse and ran to the house. There she sat with the little child in her hand, unable to do anything but weep."

She was horrified at the thought of it, she said, "and one and broke the pill in the soap, took the contents to the rear land and dumped it out. She dumped it there so that none of the livestock or chickens would pick up the poison."

"I went back to Ernst then," she testified, "and he said, 'I am not going to let you do that.'"

Some Nice Hankies At $200 Per Santa Claus Finding Distinct Upswing In Elegant Gifts

CHICAGO, Dec. 17.—A distinct upswing in elegant gifts at elegant prices, sets this Christmas season apart from its recent predecessors, dealers in luxury goods said today. The very rich are again buying the kind of presents Santa Claus used to leave in gift-edged homes before the depression. They cited such samples as these little tiny things:

Handkerchiefs.—For men, hand-embroidered linen, at $15; for ladies, there is one at $75, but the store will order better ones ranging up to $200.

Shirts.—One shop regards its $35 number in broadcloth, as a nice gift. For a millionaire who has been very good, you can get a hand-made tie at $750, or a pair of socks, $450 to $950. The $450 ones are cotton.

Jewelry.—There is a brick, but refined, demand for vanity cases. They therefore feel that they are entitled to another day, and the prettiest thing in the store is granted before Christmas many families face the festive day with the prospect of going dinnerless.

The lake is overstocked according to the fishermen and many families are being driven out of the district through the actions of the fisheries officials in preventing them from earning a living for themselves and their families.

At Nanking a spokesman said an autographed letter was being brought to Nanking from Chiang, held prisoner by "Young Marshal" Chang Hsueh-Liang at Sian-Fu, which would "dispel doubts as to the general's safety," and expose the hoax of General Chang that he had executed Chiang Kai-Shek.

PROBLEMS COMMONS ATTENTION

OTTAWA, Dec. 17.—The tariff board's long automobile hearing ended last night after the "fortnight man" the consumer, had a brief hearing and a representative of General Motors threatened his company would use its right of proportion to the Pacific coast unless it obtained relief from present tariff rates.

Two voices from western Canada were raised in protest against the tariff rates which were said to be "unfair," making the government a virtual partner in this "tariff."

ROADS BLAMED
Protest against the railway refusal to ship 2,000 freight cars at a cost of $150,000 for automobile transport came from H. J. Carmichael, president of the Canadian Automobile Manufacturers' Association.

Chas. A. Bloom, western newspaperman, declared the government's share of the difference between Canadian and American "take-off," making the government a virtual partner in this "tariff."

FROM TARIFF
Mr. Carmichael accounted for most of the gross difference of $148 between the American and Canadian prices on the Chevrolet Master car Coach, which was sold in the U.S. for $1,000 and in Canada for $1,148.

"You still get $148 from the tariff," Mr. Bloom emphasized. "The government gets $52.88, which is 36 per cent of the tariff. It is a profit for the government."

"You mean that is the cost of making cars in Canada," suggested Hon. George H. Seward, chairman of the board.

"The consumer is getting a benefit," Mr. Seward said. "The tariff is a benefit to the consumer."

FORD HIGHER
Mr. Graham said the Ford 1937 price was about $20 higher than the 1936 price, and that the tariff was a benefit to the consumer.

From the consumer's standpoint it has been extremely difficult to get the value of the tariff in the day's hearing. The tariff board's inquiry of last year did not result in savings to the consumer.

Mr. Graham said the tariff was a benefit to the consumer. The tariff was a benefit to the consumer.

FEDERAL TAXES
Canadian federal taxes amounted to $1,000,000 in 1936, according to the American Federation of Labor, which is a benefit to the consumer.

The Canadian dealer got the same discount, his margin was $1,000,000. The dealer's margin of $1,000,000 was a benefit to the consumer.

The dealer's margin of $1,000,000 was a benefit to the consumer. The dealer's margin of $1,000,000 was a benefit to the consumer.

THREE RESULTS
It just wanted to correct the impression that $148 was being extracted from the western farmer for motor vehicles," explained Mr. Carmichael.

General Motors cars were there this year 286 more pounds of Canadian metal than last year, or a total of 10,000 tons, said to mention the labor of the automobile industry.

hundred tons of the castings would be purchased in Canada. Also, 2,000 tons of gray iron castings would be obtained here.

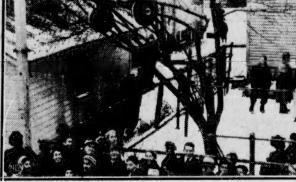

"This year is to be a 10 per cent of our factory cost from the Empire," he said. "The market this year is in the car importations he considered a 'menace' to Canadian labor."

Regarding Ford prices, H. Roe stated the Canadian price was up about $27, but the Chevrolet was almost the same compared to the United States price. The 1937 model was also, a different price.

TO CARRY CARS
Dealing briefly but pointedly last night with the freight situation, Mr. Carmichael protested against the railway's refusal to ship 2,000 freight cars at a cost of $150,000 for transport of automobiles.

With properly equipped cars in the United States, four automobiles can be carried where two are now—a direct saving to the consumer who, after all, paid the freight. The rest and the rest of the time will never let up their cry for cheaper automobiles."

NEW TEACHERS PAY SCALE TO BE NEGOTIATED

Intermediate Grades Area Affected Under Recent Section

Edmonton public school trustees will proceed to negotiate a salary schedule for teachers in intermediate grades under a new section introduced by the department of education this term. It was decided at a meeting Wednesday night.

Proposal by Trustee A. E. Ottewill, that revision of the whole salary scale, including elementary and high schools, be negotiated with the teachers, was defeated by the votes of Trustees F. A. Ford, Dr. W. Morris, Dr. F. W. Craig and S. B. Bowness.

PRESENT SCALE
Teachers' Alliance representatives stated their organizations favored revision of the present scale for elementary and high schools.

"I would move that the board proceed at once to the negotiation of a new salary schedule," Mr. Ottewill said. "At present there is no intermediate scale and framework of one must involve changes in the scale above and below."

"I am strongly in favor of the motion by Trustee Ottewill for the board to proceed at once to the negotiation of a new salary schedule," Mr. Ottewill said. "At present there is no intermediate scale and framework of one must involve changes in the scale above and below."

NO GUARANTEE
"We have said," Trustee Ford, member of the finance committee, "that salaries they received will increase this year. For this reason the teachers wish to remain at their salaries they received this year. I am in favor of leaving a new scale for another year."

"During our negotiations," A. P. Threlby, representative of the Edmonton High School Teachers' Alliance, said, "the reason the teachers gave consideration to the proposed new schedule was that it included the slow restoration of cuts. If it can't do that, what test can we have for another year?"

"It seems to me that when employees come forward with a new salary scale, it usually means a reduction," Trustee Bowness said.

WORKERS' INCREASE
"I remember correctly, the last revision brought in substantial increases," Mr. Ford said. "The provincial government is negotiating with the school boards with regard to the school year's end and August, semi-official circles reported today."

These circles predicted terms of the new agreement would allow a liberal system of contingents for Canadian butter, cheese, meat and other staple commodities.

Canadian circles in London said they believed the Dominion would be believed the exact terms of the new treaty would be withheld until the Imperial Conference which will be held in connection with the Coronation next May.

The Manchester Guardian reported formal signature of the treaty could not be expected before then.

INSPECTION OF HERDS URGED BY STOCKMEN

Industry Threatened Unless Government Intervention, Parley Told

Immediate government intervention to inspect beef herds is necessary to prevent the complete failure of the beef industry in Alberta, said C. M. Learmonth, secretary of the Western Canada Livestock Union, speaking at a meeting of the Cattle Breeders' Association in the Civic Club Wednesday afternoon.

"Low grade cattle are a drag on the market and are largely responsible for dragging down the price and making the production of beef an unprofitable industry," said Mr. Learmonth.

GRADING SYSTEM

The speaker recommended rigid government inspection of beef herds and suggested a grading system that would be universal throughout the province. He said that the Western Canada Livestock Union is concerned with enlisting the co-operation of the government to secure lower tariffs on meat into the United States and to secure supervision of export cattle and meat.

S. G. Carley was another speaker who stated that the beef cattle situation was serious. The situation facing the ranchers' point of view, was aggravated, he said, by the fact that the ranchers are the best cattle for local consumption and leaving the lesser breeds with the ranchers, who were unable to find their own markets.

John H. Stewart, of the University of Alberta, gave a report based upon a study he conducted during the summer which showed that the consumption of meat and the relative percentages of income spent on meat, varied for different sections of the province.

REDUCED HERDS

The reduction of cattle herds in the drought areas of southwestern Alberta was explained by H. A. Craig, provincial deputy minister of agriculture, who stated that the only salvation for these drought areas would be to reduce the herd to a point where it was profitable.

"Much of the land in the drought area would be better if it had never seen the plough," he said.

J. W. Dutton, of Calgary, spoke in support of the present beef industry in Alberta.

HOLD DINNER

In the evening the Alberta Provincial Livestock association held a dinner in the Corona hotel when members were present.

Speakers were C. M. Learmonth and J. H. Stewart. The dinner was an impressive marketing of the industry's beef product in the Old Country.

Give Electrical Gifts This Christmastide

Electrical Devices and Appliances are the Smart Thing To Give for Christmas, 1936!—Every Modern Home Should Be Electrically Equipped

Electrical gifts are the smart gifts for Christmas, 1936. Novel devices, household appliances, labor-saving equipment, are among the long list of electrical gifts for all the family.

NEW DEVICES

This year Electrical dealers are displaying all sorts of ingenious new devices. Old ones have been improved, too, many of them almost beyond recognition, and besides being endlessly useful, they are frequently ornamental as well. Take the beautiful coffee percolators, for instance (anyone would be glad to) of silver or polished chromium. They are a joy to behold. The party size will hold as many cups of coffee as the guests are likely to drink, and they keep the fragrant beverage steaming hot. There are small ones for the small family, and large ones for the big family.

There are toasters that do everything but butter the toast, and that make a handsome addition to the breakfast or supper table. There are chafing dishes and waffle irons and "grills" that are indispensable for informal entertaining, and that simplify the preparation of the day-by-day meals enormously. The young business man or woman who is "bacheling" would love one of these. So would the busy mother of a family.

MANY GIFTS

A pair of curling tongs is guaranteed to keep ungly locks in order and is a useful thing to have. They are attractive, too. The handles are enameled in bright colors, and they are equipped with a non-twist cord. Another gadget that is a great help in times of illness, or if there is a baby in the household, is the bedside heater. Plunge it into a glass of milk, and the milk is piping hot in a minute or two. An electric blanket is a boon to the invalid, as well as to the person who likes to snuggle down into a nice warm bed when the nights grow chilly. In this category of special appliances one also finds the sun-ray lamp. More and more people are learning to depend on its health-giving rays. The woman who does her own cooking is enthusiastic about the useful mixers. Write these devices down on your Christmas list.

HOME AIDS

It is when one travels into the realm of the kitchen and laundry that electric appliances become items of major interest. No woman who has experienced the joy of owning an electric refrigerator can imagine how she ever existed before she had one. Not only does it simplify her cooking problems, but it does away with innumerable trips to the grocery and the butcher. Food keeps fresh for days, and the loss from waste is cut to a minimum. When it comes to desserts, the electric refrigerator is invaluable. Home-made ice cream and delectable sweets are no bother at all. All one does is pop them in the freezing trays, and let the refrigerator do the rest. An electric refrigerator is a lasting investment, paying dividends in saving and health. It is the ideal present for the mother of the family, and dealers will explain their easy terms on request.

LABOR-SAVING AIDS

There was a time when the conscientious housekeeper was always busy.

Today she has time to play an intelligent part in the life of the community, and to enjoy the relaxation that is her due. She owes her freedom in large part to the electrical household equipment that has removed the heaviest burdens from her shoulders. An electric range can be kept spotlessly clean—it is amazingly simple to operate, and it is utterly dependable. Many of the new models feature the automatic oven control, and almost all models are equipped with an oven thermometer. Finished in enamel or porcelain that is practically indestructible, the console type is an attractive piece of kitchen furniture. There are electric ranges within compass of almost every purse.

The electric washing machine and its efficient companion, the electric iron or mangle, is indispensable in the modern home. The washing machine has banished blue-

Monday from the calendar, play. These appliances and the ironer has vanquished that weekly bugaboo, ironing, endorsed by electricity—the family ironing, endorsed by electricity. They, too, can be purchased on an easy plan, and the payment plan. Ask your druggery of "sweeping dealers to explain it.

made further discussion impossible. Moreover, Bob was too stunned by the sudden accusation to be able to think clearly. This eccentric action, in the form of sticking a knife into the back of a man's head, was not the kind of thing that a sane man would do. And Betty? She, too, might fall under suspicion.

"My brother asked me to remind you that no one is to leave the motel until this is cleared up," Pearl John was saying.

Bob thought his voice held a sudden coldness, and the drawn look on his white face told only too plainly of the tension Pearl John was under. He felt sorry for this young member of the strange household.

No matter how the tragic state of affairs ended, he would always

After Pearl John had walked away Bob tried to reason things out. What had Betty said about the youngest brother being held on the mesa by the power of the older Forests? Would Pearl John be nearer to freedom now that Pearl Sam was dead? And what about the trail down the canyon? That knob had looked a good deal like Indian artifacts Bob had seen in museums.

Betty seemed to be busy taking care of the old lady, and Ramon was talking in low tones to Anglique—evidently trying to soothe her shattered nerves. The girl's coquetry had vanished entirely after the tragedy, and she was plainly on the verge of collapse.

Professor Shaw, alone, seemed unexcited over Pearl Sam's death. He appeared to view the catastrophe as he might have looked on a very interesting, unusual scientific development.

He reached the professor's office and thought it, the old boy seemed to know a lot about the people here. Who is he, anyway? And just what is his business on Thunder Mesa? Even before he could ask these questions, however, Pearl Sam came in, discussing so earnestly. Could he have been to the archeologist's at last? He tried to put Pearl Sam out of his path.

Still Bob waited, wondering why he should do next, and why he was. Pierre did not come back to him. He did not know what to do. Suddenly it occurred to him that he might busy himself putting things in some sort of order in the big rooms. Accordingly, he began to do so, clearing away the debris, the litter of ash-trays and cigar stumps left by the party.

How cold and forbidding it was! How dark and gloomy with its tyres dug down in the fireplace and the strange gaunt figures of the little Santos staring down from their niches! "Something like giving a dance in a chapel," Bob reflected as he stopped to look more closely at one particularly morbid example of the friar's art.

This little place reminds me of an old dance hall of mine in a part of the city where the friars have a refinery that fails to cover her part on bones. It's getting me, too."
